Sandy Patangay traditionally relates henna tattoos to Indian marriage parties as well as guest of parties of all kinds. But she's not long ago branched out with an unusual latest association Creme-Delicious. She re-creates her perplexing henna designs upon ideally tasty small heart cakes. This is how it's done. First her bread maker creates a chocolate, vanilla or red velvet creations lonesome in white fondant. Sandy colors any baked sweat bread to grasp a colourful Indian hues she seeks. The cakes have been cream-infused with white chocolate, strawberry or chocolate hazelnut.

Then she painstakingly decorates any baked sweet bread with piping, sugarine powdering powder as well as sugarine beads. The particular portion cakes can take up to a half-hour to adorn as well as have been as pleasing as they have been delicious. we consider they would have a smashing marriage favor, or simply an artistic marriage dessert.
